

NEWS RELEASE

Another major coup for Devonport Squash Club. After successfully hosting the 2006 Australian Junior Squash Championships, which saw some 500 of Australia's finest Junior Squash Players showcasing their finely tuned skills, Tasmanian Masters' Squash Association has selected Devonport Squash Club to host the first 2008 Tasmanian Masters' Squash Tournament commencing the 4th of April.

As in the past this tournament will attract many interstate Champion Masters' players who will be plying their talents against Tasmanian Masters' Champions.

One of the major draw cards in this year's event will be Hobart's Gaye Mitchell who victoriously represented Australia in the recently held Australia and New Zealand Masters' Test Series.

Many local Australian Masters Champions who have recently returned from the Australian Masters Squash Championships held in WA will also be showing their skills, making this another success for Devonport Squash Club in their endeavours to continue to bring major squash tournaments to the area.

This tournament is open to all grades of players who are 35 years and above. Each player is graded in their respective age and skills group allowing novices to highly ranked players to play at their level.
